GUERNSEY COUNTY IN NATURAL GAS DISPUTE

Battle To Determine Where
New Supply Produced There
Is To Go

Cambridge July 17—Guernsey County is in the throes of a natural gas war, according to reports. It is of numerous companies in the field.

The battle is a struggle to determine where it is now safe to go West in Guernsey County to obtain acreage and rights.

Below a twenty mile radius from different gas companies are in the Guernsey county field a leading to the gas men themselves and to officials of the chamber of commerce. Each company is seeking gas supplies from different sources.

Officials of all the companies ruling in the field say that the gas from the Guernsey County field will be on the crop in the buck in supplying the needs of Ohio gas consumers. They say that no comment on their statements show that more than one-half of the natural gas used in Ohio is imported from West Virginia. While the rest Guernsey county field is one of the largest Ohio has to offer, they say that it will do little towards relieving the general state wide situation.

Government statistics show that Ohio is fifth among the states in the amount of natural gas consumed, and only seventh in production. Although fifth in consumption Ohio serves twice as many consumers as California which ranks first.

To date approximately 80 producing gas wells have been drilled in the local field, and 70 more have been drilled and ready for drilling. Twelve new holes have been drilled.

Chubby Reporter Tests His Weight on Penny Scales with Startling Results

By MARION CHENOWETH

I weigh somewhere between 129

and 135 pounds—but that is what the up-to-date weighing machine record.

Have you any idea how much you weigh? If so, how do you know that it is the correct weight? May be you are convinced that you weigh as much as you are lucky, but at the same time you may be in the same boat that I am. I don't know exactly how much I weigh even though I have tried hard to find out.

I spent exactly nine cents and visited about that many meat markets, groceries and other places where machines are available to determine the weight and found that there was 10 pounds difference in two of the scales.

Honest weight—no springs—that may do to tell.

"You have heard the doctor say 'weigh yourself every day.' All right, but which scales? What would the doctor say if he knew the condition of some of the scales?

How can a person determine whether he gained a pound from eating yesterday or lost a pound by walking today?

He can't.

Among the numero 1 machines I tried to find my exact weight. I can across three that give me printed cards which add the average points to your weight and often has your fortune told on it.

The first one said 135 pounds—so you're legal and above all do not pay double in others until too late. Be careful of this. Consider your future.

I felt little better after I got this one—147 pounds—although apparently you have an evenness of mind and firmness of will that make a good balance which will carry you far.

The last one I tackled ran something like a daily rooster—146 pounds—you have undoubtedly talents, but some of your friends think you are cranky. Try not to talk to them and follow your natural inclinations.

All of the machines gave my weight different, as well as telling my fortune in a different way. I didn't find any more of the machines and was happy because it might read still different such as 100 pounds—you are very good for nothing, and etc. So I let it go at that.

The first machine I tried when

HEARING ON DURKIN'S PLEA AGAIN POSTPONED

Chicago July 17—Hearing on the petition of Martin Durkin which would for a retrial here on the charge of killing Edwin C. Shanahan, 10, agent, has been continued until July 24 by Judge Harry B. Miller.

The continuance was granted at the request of Roland J. Johnson, associate defense counsel with Eugene McCarty.

In the plea that McCarty was out of the city that McCarty was out of the city.

Durkin has been sentenced to 96 years in prison for the killing.

I started on my quest of determining my weight and found that I generally take the long hand stop ped at 138 just one pound less than I weighed last week.

The next two were both different.

Sometimes we are more than half inclined to believe that Governor Donahay and Attorney General Crabb do not particularly like each other.

Of course, it is understood that Mr. Cummins, in stating that Mr. Coolidge will not be a candidate in 1928, isn't breaking any executive confidence.

Murderer Durkin is reported to have said that he would rather take a chance of hanging than serve thirty-five years in prison. One way to stop this kind of guff would be to make death at all times optional with criminals given long-term sentences.

Opening his senatorial campaign in Danville, the Hon. George Brennan, of Illinois, told his hearers that the temperance cause is failing as a result of prohibition. If our wet friends do not stop worrying over the cause of temperance, some of us are liable to become suspicious one of these days.

The mayor of twenty-nine cities and fifty-two villages of Ohio have endorsed the "City Planning" amendment, which would give municipalities the right to assess the full cost of public improvement upon the reality within the limits of the municipality whether or not such reality abutted onto the improvement. The tax-eaters are simply insatiable.

The World's Highest Building. It is hardly probable that the architects and builders of the first steel skeleton building in the world had more than the most hankering at what they had started when they erected the Tacoma in Chicago. New York City's answer to it was the fifteen-story Tower building. The Flatiron building, for a time the eighth wonder of the world, came soon after, but the veritable wedge did not long retain its supremacy as the high office building. It was not long till it was dwarfed. When the Singer building was proposed, question was raised whether such a foundation as that to be found in New York could withstand such a height and weight. The Metropolitan was next regarded as the last word for height, but soon the fifty-five-story Woolworth building succeeded it as the world's highest building, the elite which it yet holds, but soon will be forced to surrender.

J. B. Book, Jr., of Detroit, who, although just past his thirty-fourth milestone, has already given his home city many fine structures, a number of them of the skyscraper order, will at once begin the construction of a monster building with a tower which will show eighty-one stories above the street level and attain a height of 873 feet, almost 100 feet higher than the topmost point of the Woolworth tower. The main building will be forty-two stories high and have a frontage of 225 feet on State street, 120 feet on Washington boulevard and 150 feet on Park place. The tower will have eighty-five stories, four of them being below ground. While it will be slightly less than 100 feet higher than the Woolworth building, it will show twenty-six stories more, the stories of the Detroit structure not being so high as the present record-holder for height. Each of the forty-two floors of the main building will have 80,000 square feet of floor space. The tower, which will be 120 by 125 feet, will be surmounted by the most powerful searchlight in the world, designed to throw its rays a distance of seventy-five miles.

But while preparations are being made to erect this new giant in Detroit, New York architects are predicting the erection of a 100-story building in their city—a building which will exceed in height the world's highest structure—the 983-foot Eiffel tower in Paris and by nineteen stories top the great structure soon to arise in Detroit.

In the memory of hundreds of thousands the fifteen-story wonder has grown to fifty-five stories and soon will attain eighty-one, and now there is talk of one in excess of 1,000 feet. To what heights will the constantly increasing size of sites and the rivalry for elevation supremacy go?

Shot from Ambush.

We believe the offering of $1,000 reward by the Brush-Moore League of Ohio newspapers, of which this paper is one, for the arrest and conviction of the cowardly murderers who from ambush, at an early hour Friday morning, shot down and killed Don R. McNeill, resident head of the Canton News, will meet the general approval of the people of Ohio. In any event, it should call forth general emulation throughout the state, for it manifest that some incentive out of and beyond the ordinary must be offered to stimulate action against the criminal element. It law and order are to prevail and our citizenship is to be permitted to live in peace and safety.

So long as the bandits, bootleggers, drug-dollars, thugs, political gangsters and other denizens of the criminal world warred upon each other, so long as the killings were limited to the criminal classes, there naturally was some indifference on the part of the public, which looked upon the elimination of the criminal as good riddance of bad rubbish. But in following this course, the public made a serious blunder. It failed to take into consideration the fact that each case in which the criminal world thus acted as executioner without suffering speedy punishment through the law, served to morally contaminate the law, with the result that it soon was carrying its warfare outside its own world and warring against society generally.

It began to kill for any real or fancied grievance which it suffered, or imagined it suffered, condemning without trial and executing without pity. And perhaps no more cowardly, cold-blooded murder ever was committed by this element than that of this young newspaper man of Canton, whose offense to the element, was his campaign against crime wherever he found it and his attempt to restore law and order in a crime-ridden city.

For months we have been endeavoring to show our readers to what this flood of crime is leading. We have written so frequently on the subject that it has been intimated to us that we were overdoing the matter and being needlessly alarmed. Possibly the killing of Don McNeill will bring home to such critics, as well as the public generally, conviction as no ordinary case would, that the constitutional right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness no longer obtains in this country; that it has been abrogated by the action of the criminal world with the aid and assistance of the influence of the law and its delays, inefficient and often vicious police authorities, unwise courts and the propaganda of the subversives and gentileophilists.

Perhaps this case will bear the public from its lethargy and bring it to a realization of conditions as they exist.

Up in Chicago a repair man is advertising "I can take your silver, put a new bond on it, and make it look like an automobile." And yet we have been told that the day of miracles is past!

The Milwaukee Journal explains that "many congressmen are enthusiastically welcomed to their home towns because the people know that they can't do anything near as much damage there as when they are in Washington." In other words, the Journal, we assume, figures that the most of them are known at home.

Senator Wadsworth, of New York, says: "We can keep our freedom by insisting that we are competent to mind our own business." Not on your life, James! We simply can't make the reformers believe it.

It has been suggested at the meeting of the American Bar Association in Denver that the bar of the land sit in judgment upon itself as a means of regaining the confidence of the public. That may rehabilitate the bar, but the public is going to have mighty hard shudders until the courts—particularly the big city courts—and the police departments of the land are born again.

Governing Pinchot reiterates his demand for a clean-up in Pennsylvania politics. We would be mad, too, if we had blown in $200,000 for a nomination and never gotten even so much as a look-in at it.

"We wonder," says the Dallas News, "if our austerity will brag on us like we brag on our ancestors." It's possible. It's the easiest thing in the world to be fooled by the passing years.

While it is true that the bob has caused a lot of talk, it seems at the same time to have had a marked tendency toward making the barber speechless. As the "Man from Wellville" would say, "There's a reason."

RIVER SHIPPING TO BOOM CITIES ON MISSISSIPPI

St. Louis Looms as Port with Government's Plans for Barge Lines

St. Louis July 17.—After development of the port of St. Louis as a great trade center at long term is the optimistic view that river improvement engineers here take of the proposed extension of the United States Government's Mississippi River system.

The installation of the government's upper Mississippi fleet of three tow boats and 12 barges on April 1, 1924, will work great benefits for Mississippi agriculture and industrial interest in the state.

The proposed upper Mississippi route from St. Louis to Minneapolis and St. Paul will supplement the other two existing river service lines—the Mississippi division from St. Louis to New Orleans and the Mississippi-Missouri-British from New Orleans via Mobile to Birmingham.

Barges Sponsors Plan

Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war and a native St. Louisian, familiar with the possibilities of river transportation and its advantages to the country, has finally completed his plan for conducting a through river service from the Twin Cities to New Orleans with the port of St. Louis as terminus for northern and southern trade.

The war department's program calls for an expenditure of $750,000, which already has been appropriated. In addition to the scheduled fleet, the 12 vessel Goliath barge, which recently was returned to the government under a decision of the United States supreme court also will be used for river transportation.

The extension of the service next April to the Minnesota region opens up a vast territory along the Great Lakes for water service as well as the cities along the Illinois river. The government also is planning a deepening of the water channel.

Since 1917 and during the war period the government operated the river service to relieve the railroads of freight congestion.

Revenue For City

The freight carried through the St. Louis municipal docks for the year April 1, 1925 to April 1, 1926 totaled 45,307 tons. A royalty of 15 cents per ton was paid the city for the lease of the docks, thus giving this city a total revenue of $11,000.55 for the year.

The cities along the river are keenly alive to the possibilities of water transportation development. As shown by their efforts to raise bond issues for the establishment of terminals and docking facilities St. Paul is planning the creation of a $150,000 bond issue. Minneapolis $250,000. New Orleans holds an unique position in that her river transportation committee consists of public-spirited citizens who serve without compensation.

The docks at Vickburg, Miss., St. Louis and Cairo are all government property while those at Memphis, New Orleans and St. Louis are rented to the government.

Upworth ADULT Sunday School and Church Service will be held at Garfield Park, Sunday morn July 18. Adm July 17.

Once Called Coming City, Now Officially Off Map

Cable July 17—This village, planned by early residents as a great city of the future is now officially off the map.

Voters at a recent special election unanimously approved a proposition to abandon the village charter and to cease functioning as a corporation, feeling that the tax for maintaining a village organization was too burdensome.

When the town began to boom in 1857 with the opening of a coal mine and its residents peers into the future and saw Cable as one of the great metropolises. Within two years a charter was obtained and the settlement named in honor of P. L. and R. H. Cable both of whom were prominent in the affairs of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

By 1859 census takers listed the village's population at 3,207. The veins of coal, however, began to thin out and

DELANEY NEW LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT KING

Bridgeport Battering Ram
Punches Way to Win Over
Berlenbach in 15-Round Go

New Fistic King Upsets Dope of Sport Critics by Winning Over "Dom Paul" in Final Rounds, 45,000 Fans Witness Title Bout

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK July 17—Jack Delaney, new Ovilla Chaplain, fooled em, 15,000 of em, and that includes the wise ones from here to Banff.

Delaney would win and long headed wise men from under their green eye shades, but he would have to win early. If he failed to put Paulie to sleep before the sixth frame, Paulie would keep his glittering light heavyweight crown. He would wear the French Canadian from Bridgeport down with body punches and he would depart with scepter intact.

But Delaney fought on. He won the full dozen rounds right mortal. Paulie was his son of a gun and thought he remained upright by just a hair.

Berlenbach in his own valorous way did a little crooking of his own. He fooled the boxx at the ringpole. A most of all he foisted Jack Delaney a very hard hand to get. He beat him out of a bulk cap or a knockout as it is referred to in the vernacular. Here Paul showed the result of careful coaching failed to resort to his crude shift which Monksius Chaplin got with a knockout victory in their first meeting.

Berly Arts Strange

That is how it came to pass that Paulie punched Paul as he wiffed unmercifully described, except that which is wiser than death to a champion a knockout?

The customers agreed that last night's Berlenbach was a different type than they had expected. Paul did not rush in where no one fear to stand except that who shot right out and forgot that that was the busin ess if not the duty of a good box fighter to do damage to his opponent. Paul did a lot of rushing but little punishing with the result that a consensus of experts at the ringpole gave him only two of the fifteen rounds. One was even.

Stages Ready

The fight was really decided in the eleventh and twelfth rounds which went to Delaney by a wide margin. Up to this point it was more or less of a tie up with Delaney's advantages in the first few rounds being offset by Delaney's from the ninth to the eleventh.

The new champion upon the conclusion of the experts by boxing carfully in the first few rounds and then in the closing rounds when it was figured that Paul would be a years old and Berlenbach would throw caution to the wind. Delaney after so confused his opponent by driving him into his best likes.

In defeat Paul was a sportsman and Delaney a gracious winner. The fight was waged cleanly and with no show of animosity. There was no doubt that the better man won. Delaney won on sheer cold science. He easily outwitted Paul and carried him along at his own pace.

Berlenbach has no excuses. His friends advanced the theory that at most constant training for two years

SPECTATORS GIVEN SURPRISE AT BOUT

New York July 17—Philip dolphin Jack O'Brien, former light heavyweight champion, was just as badly foisted as any layman by Jack Delaney's surprisingly strong finish in his fight with Paul Berlenbach last night.

O'Brien, an interested spectator at the fight, turned to friends at the end of the seventh round when Berlenbach was making his strongest bid.

"Delaney is all shot," he said. "He had to win in the first five or six rounds. He can't kill a tick now."

Twenty minutes later Delaney had Berlenbach fairly cornered. He seemed to be hitting several "ticks."

Then the round after a slow start

Furious mixing cracked the match. In the tenth Paul landed his best blow a powerfully left to the body that sent Jack against the ropes.

Delaney split his opponent's eye with a terrific right in the eleventh.

The blow dazed Berlenbach. Delaney sailed into him again in the following rounds and clinched the right to victory.

"There isn't much for Delaney to do now except to enter the honest in good less heavyweight ranks. There are no light heavyweights in sight who of year able to give him a battle."

Did Delaney, Wille and Tunney appear to be pugnaciously dead for the night? Only the Ring knew.

Why doesn't the New York Boxing Commission call Delaney the heavy weight as well as light heavyweight champion and let it go at that?

Columbus attempts to set the peer in the Southeastern League pennant race.

Cool clothes also help one hell to take the trials of life.

HELEN WILLS PLANS TO DEFEND TITLE THIS YEAR

Berkeley Calif. July 17—Helen Wills will defend her national women's singles championship at 10:30 A. M. Saturday. Her mother, Mrs. Helen Wills, will be the chairwoman of the tournament.

Latzo, a 17-year-old girl from Toledo, Ohio, will challenge to sleep in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout to be held at a fast night.

Patty Mallin, manager of Helen Wills, said after the fight that Latzo would meet Dundee at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on September 7, but that Latzo will be a fighting champion and not a light heavyweight champion and let it go at that date.

Both of Helen's ribs were closed when Latzo beat the Days of Akron in Latzo's two wins in the fourth consecutive bout. Latzo beat the Days of Akron in Latzo's two wins in the fourth consecutive bout.

 25 Years Ago; Now Thriving Industry

The U. S. Milk Cap Supply Co. located on Canal Court manufactures milk caps for wholesale or retail dairymen throughout the United States

Supplying hundreds of customers

The company was started 25 years ago by J. S. Riddle. He bought an vacant lot in the center of his home in Terrell where the family still resides.

Eight years ago he built the present factory in Canby Court. The plant from the Erie Railroad three years after the new factory was built. Mr.

Riddle died.

His daughters, Mrs. J. B. Riddle and Miss Zenia Riddle, who had been in business with him were left sole owners of the estate together with their mother.

Instead of selling out they took on charge of the factory and continued

the manufacture of Riddle's

Supply, now U. S. Dairymen's

Supply, number one dairy supplies which they also sell the dairy houses and retail dairymen.

This is the only factory of its kind in Marion and one of five in the entire state.

There are five employees in the factory, who work in the office, three machines are in use, for the manufacture of the caps. Miss Lucy

Glavin and Miss Helen are the girls directors of her customers.

The material for the caps is made of wood pulp, in the form of a leaf and cut stock proof. It comes from New York where it is manufactured. It is cut out by the machines and later printed in metal

the same in in a 4,000 tons cookies

Although the state population increased by three million in 20 years, the death rate for the last year was actually the same in number as in 1910.

The death rate in the state in 1925 was 12.7 per thousand population, down from 12.9 in 1920 and since 1920 the rate for New York City was 12.2 and for the rest of the state it was 13.

In the latter year, 10 per cent of all deaths were due to the acute respiratory diseases (pneumonia, influenza and pneumonia), while in 1925 only eleven per cent of deaths were due to those causes.

Pneumonia in 1920 caused almost 12 per cent of all deaths while just year it caused but 7.1 per cent. On the other hand, 25 years ago heart disease was responsible for only 7.1 per cent of deaths but in 1925 more than 21 per cent of deaths were due to this cause.
